

May is National Mental Health Awareness Month!

How to take care of yourself and your family in May

1. Get trained in Mental Health First Aid/Youth Mental Health First Aid.
Learn more here: www.mentalhealthfirstaid.org/population-focused-modules/youth/
2. Talk about mental health with your family at the dinner table.
Talking about mental health reduces the stigma and increases the likelihood of your loved ones seeking treatment.
3. Take care of your physical health too.
Nourishing your body enough with good foods and participating in joyful movements helps to improve mental health.

What is Joyful Movement?

Joyful movement is an approach to exercise that includes moving your body in a way that you enjoy and not for the purpose of changing your body. Joyful movement may look different for everyone- it could be sports, yoga, swimming, walking, biking, dancing, or anything that makes you feel good inside and out!

Eat with Mental Health in Mind:

- Stay hydrated
- Eat consistent meals and snacks to balance your hormones, and blood sugar, and avoid being hangry (hungry+angry)!
- Choose convenience when necessary.
Convenience foods are just that- convenient! If utilizing convenience foods such as frozen fruits, canned veggies, minute rice, etc. help you to get a balanced meal on the table, then do it!

Fruit Infused Water

How to Infuse Water with Fruit

- Pick your favorite combination of fruits. You can also add herbs or veggies to enhance the flavors and nutrition.
- Add everything to a glass jar, or glass cup if just making one portion. With the back of a spoon, slightly press the ingredients against the side of the container to muddle them and release some of the flavors.
- Let sit for at least 30 minutes and up to 3 hours in the fridge.
- Add ice and enjoy!
